RE: For Immediate Release: TM Century Unveils Daily Comedy Network

TM Century, Inc. of Dallas, TX today announced the formation of Daily Comedy Network, a merger of TM Century's Comedy Network and The Daily Service.

Daily Comedy Network provides parody songs, timely bits, interactives, TV/movie drops, and production elements based on the news and current events delivered to the users email inbox each morning. Current and new affiliates will get more and get better material from the funniest writers, producers and voice over actors in New York City. They are also teaming up with some of the most creative comedic contributors from all over the U.S. Feedback from current Comedy Network and The Daily Service affiliates factored into the development and the upgrade of Daily Comedy Network.

The timeliness, wide range of humor, creative freedom, and morning delivery makes this service ideal for radio morning shows. Erik Hastings, President/CEO of Scripted Improv Media, Inc, producers of Daily Comedy Network, says "It's like having your own comedy team alongside your morning team and no other morning show can say that...We may go from pushing the envelope to family-friendly, but you won't get in trouble with the FCC."

Eve Mayer Orsburn, Vice President of Sales and Marketing at TM Century says, "We are raising the bar by providing fully produced comedy based on what everyone is talking about at the water cooler NOW." Along with daily email bits, clients will have access shortly to a brand new website where a wealth of comedy will be provided to them on a daily basis.
